Tips for Cutting Salt

Salt can raise your blood pressure.

You should eat only 1/4 teaspoon of salt each day.

That's the same as 1,500 mg each day.

Fresh foods usually have less salt

Cook at home

Restaurants add a lot of salt to their food. But, you can skip the salt when cooking for yourself.

Fill up on vegetables

Skip the salt

Don't add salt when cooking or eating. Use spices, herbs, vinegar, or lemon instead.

Read food labels

You'll be surprised at how much salt is in prepared foods, including cereal and crackers.

Pay attention to flavorings

Avoid soy sauce, ketchup, salad dressing, and seasoning packets. If you need to use salted flavorings, use only a sprinkling instead of the whole thing.

Choose low-sodium dairy and protein foods

Deli and lunch meats, sausages, and canned meat are very high in salt.

Cut back over time

Cut back little by little. You'll get used to less salt.

Boost your potassium

Potassium may help lower your blood pressure. Try a small banana, tomatoes, sweet potatoes, beans, or low-fat milk.
