Self-Determination/Empowerment

New Resources

- Information Technology Attitudes and Behaviors Among Individuals with Psychiatric Disabilities Who Use the Internet: Results of a Web-Based Survey   ART-132; $2.75
  Cook, J.A., Fitzgibbon, G., Batteiger, D. et al. (2005)
  Disability Studies Quarterly. 25 (20).

- Express Yourself! Assessing Self-Determination in Your Life   OTH-036; $5.00
  Cook J.A., Petersen C.A., Jonikas, J.A. (2005)

  This self-determination tool helps users to pinpoint areas of their lives (such as money or relationships) where they'd like to have more control and decision-making power, and then learn how to get started by using action-planning and web-based resources. Areas covered in this self-assessment include finances, housing, transportation, employment, community integration, medical treatment, and mental health care. The tool is especially useful when paired with the UIC NRTC person-centered planning guide called, "This is Your Life! Creating a Self-Directed Life Plan."

- Peer Outcomes Protocol   OTH-035; $20.00
  Campbell, J., Cook, J.A., Jonikas, J.A., Einspahr, K. (2004)

  This protocol was co-developed by the UIC NRTC and the Missouri Institute of Mental Health. The Protocol is a step-by-step guide for gathering information about mental health self-help or peer-run programs/groups. The Protocol consists of an Administration Manual, a Question-by-Question Guide, a Questionnaire, Response Cards, and a report of the psychometric properties of the Questionnaire. The Questionnaire consists of seven parts or modules: Demographics, Service Use, Employment, Community Life, Quality of Life, Well-Being, and Program Satisfaction. Use of the Protocol can assist peer-run programs in evaluating their services/supports, improving their programming, and reporting their successes to funding bodies and public entities.

Self-Determination/Empowerment

New Resources

♦ Promoting Self-Determination for Individuals with Psychiatric Disabilities through Self-Directed Services: A Look at Federal, State, and Public Systems as Sources of Cash-Outs and Other Fiscal Expansion Opportunities   ART-118; $2.75
    Cook, J.A., Terrell, S., Jonikas, J.A. (2004)

    Report presented at SAMHSA Consumer/Family Direction Initiative Summit, March 22-23, 2004, Washington, D.C.

♦ A Program to Reduce Utilization of Physical Restraint in Psychiatric Inpatient Facilities   ART-121; $2.75
    Jonikas, J.A., Cook, J.A., Rosen, C., Laris, A., Kim, J.B. (2004)
    Psychiatric Services*., 55 (7), 818-820.

♦ The UIC NRTC's National Self-Determination and Psychiatric Disability Invitational Conference: We Make the Road By Traveling On It (Conference Papers)   OTH-034; $10.00
    Jonikas, J.A., Cook, J.A. (Eds.) (2004)

    This monograph is a compilation of the briefing papers presented at the UIC NRTC's National Self-Determination and Psychiatric Disability Invitational Conference: We Make the Road by Traveling on It. The papers — written by national, cross-disability experts in self-determination — summarize current knowledge about personal experiences of self-determination, ways to reorganize the current infrastructure and financing of service systems to foster self-direction, and societal barriers to self-determination.

♦ This is Your Life! Creating a Self-Directed Life Plan   OTH-033; $10.00
    Jonikas, J.A., Cook, J.A. (2004)

    This easy-to-use workbook helps people with psychiatric disabilities think about, choose, plan for, and act on a life goal, with supports of their own choosing. The workbook has as its foundation both person-centered planning and the "stages of change" model. It guides people in mental health recovery to see that life change is a process, with natural twists and turns along the way.

  Disabilities: An Annotated Bibliography of Resources   OTH-029; $5.00
  Bamberger, E., Batteiger, A., Caras, S., Cook, J., Dansky, H., Fitzgibbon, G., Phillips, D., Priester, F., Robbins, J. (2002)

  This document summarizes numerous articles, books, and reports related to technology and self-determination, disability, and accessibility/availability.

Self-Determination/Empowerment

Reports, Bibliographies, and Conference Proceedings

- Self-Determination for People with Psychiatric Disabilities:
  An Annotated Bibliography of Resources   OTH-028; $5.00
     Belcher, L., Chamberlin, J., Cook, J., Furlong-Norman, K., Granger, B., Guevara, R., Heller, T., Holmes-Bonilla, L., Jonikas, J.A., Laris, A., Oaks, D., Powers, L., Rogers, J., Schmook, A., Vogel-Scibilia, S., Taylor, A. (2002)

     This annotated bibliography contains references to numerous articles, monographs, unpublished reports, and books regarding self-determination, self-advocacy, and self-sufficiency for people with psychiatric and other types of disabilities.

- Facilitating Careers for Mental Health Consumers: A Vocational Rehabilitation Research Conference   OTH-023; $10.00
     Conference Proceedings (1998)
     Sponsored by the National Research and Training Center on Psychiatric Disability, Department of Psychiatry, University of Illinois at Chicago.

     This is a collection of presentation summaries from the Vocational Rehabilitation Research Conference, sponsored by the UIC National Research and Training Center in April, 1998. Topics addressed include disclosure and reasonable accommodations, job training, supported education, gender issues in employment, and career opportunities.

Implementation, Educational, and Training

- Seeking Supported Employment: What You Need to Know   OTH-032; $5.00
     Cook, J.A., Petersen, C.A. (2003)

     This easy-to-read booklet guides consumers through the process of identifying an evidence-based supported employment program. Using a question and answer checklist format, along with an integrated scoring system, consumers can choose the program that is right for them, and know whether the program provides services that research has shown lead to career success.

Self-Determination/Empowerment

Implementation, Educational, and Training

♦ Raising Difficult Issues With Your Service Provider   OTH-031; $5.00
  Petersen, C.A., Jonikas, J.A., Cook, J.A., Priester, F. (2003)

  This booklet provides "conversation starters" for people to use when they wish to begin an empowering dialogue with mental health service providers. Ways to raise issues in ten important life areas cover education, employment, history of abuse and trauma, intimate relationships, control over one's own money, maintaining privacy, promoting sexual freedom, honoring choices about psychiatric medications, and showing respect for service recipients.

♦ Self-Determination Framework for People with Psychiatric Disabilities   OTH-027; $2.00
  Belcher, L., Chamberlin, J., Cook, J., Dansky, H., Furlong-Norman, K., Granger, B., Guevara, R., Heller, T., Holmes-Bonilla, L., Jonikas, J.A., Oaks, D., Powers, L., Rogers, J., Schmook, A. (2002)

  This framework serves as a foundation for identifying values and approaches that can foster self-determination for people with psychiatric disabilities. It highlights the meaning of self-determination, how it can be achieved, and how it can reflect the needs of people with psychiatric disabilities from a variety of backgrounds.

♦ Think Positive: A Curriculum for Peers with HIV/AIDS
  and Psychiatric Disability   CUR-006; $19.00
  Hamilton, M., Jonikas, J.A., Razzano, L., Cook, J.A. (2002)

  This training curriculum was designed to be used by peer facilitators to conduct support groups for persons who are HIV+ and have a psychiatric disability. It contains 20 sessions which address a variety of issues, including: stigma, treatment and medication options, grieving and loss, substance abuse, relationships and safer sex, entitlements, and disability rights.
  Sample scripts to assist facilitators in presenting educational material to the group are included. In addition, each session features group exercises. Resources are provided for each topic discussed.

Self-Determination/Empowerment

Implementation, Educational, and Training

♦ Toolkit for Increasing Self-Determination Through Advance Crisis Management in Inpatient & Community Settings (Manual and Video)
Jonikas, J.A., Laris, A., Cook, J.A. (2002)

This toolkit contains two Advance Crisis Management tools: an instructional manual and videotape. The manual, "Increasing Self-Determination through Advance Crisis Management in Inpatient and Community Settings: How To Design, Implement, and Evaluate Your Own Program," addresses 4 major topics: designing and implementing an advance crisis management (ACM) program; creating and using ACM plans each day; common concerns of ACM programs; and evaluating ACM plans and procedures. The videotape, "Increasing Self-Determination: Advance Crisis Management with Mental Health Consumers in Inpatient and Other Settings," demonstrates how to conduct a Crisis-De-Escalation Training. Descriptive handouts are included.

Toolkit (Manual, Video, & Handouts) OTH-024; $100.00

♦ Managing Workplace Conflict: A Skills Training Workbook for Mental Health Consumers and Supervisor   MAN-009; $20.00
Shore, S., Curtis, L. (1998)

This manual addresses ways in which consumer and nonconsumer service providers can resolve disagreements and manage conflict at work. Tips for effective negotiation and communication strategies leading to improved job performance and supervision are included.

♦ Positive Partnerships: How Consumers and Nonconsumers Can Work Together as Service Providers (2nd. Edition)   MAN-003; $9.75
Solomon, M.L., Jonikas, J.A., Cook, J.A., Kerouac, J. (1998)

This manual addresses issues that arise when current or former consumers of mental health services work as service providers. Topics include the benefits of hiring consumers, discrimination and other barriers to consumer hiring, strategies for creating an inclusive work environment, ways to avoid tokenism and co-optation, the transition from client to provider, methods for managing mental illness in the workplace, and disclosure and consumer rights under the ADA.

     Engstrom, K., Brooks, E., Jonikas, J.A., Cook, J.A., Witheridge, T. (2000)

     This self-study manual was designed for use by case managers and their supervisors working in outreach programs for homeless persons with psychiatric disabilities. It begins by describing personal characteristics that enhance work with clients. The Assertive Community Treatment approach is introduced, mental and substance use disorders are discussed, and medication and treatment methods are reviewed. Next, general health issues specific to homeless individuals are covered, along with social service needs and features of public entitlement systems. Later chapters include methods for establishing a therapeutic alliance and coordination of services using the Total Team Approach, community support systems, and cultural sensitivity.

- Safety First: Personal Safety and Risk Management
  for Assertive Community Treatment Teams   ACT-003; $19.99
     Pratt, S., Allness, D., Curtis, L.C., Jonikas, J.A.,

Horton-O'Connell, T., Stellon, E., Bennett, C., Cook, J.A. (1999)

This manual offers Assertive Community Treatment (ACT) providers important insight into minimizing safety risks when delivering ACT services. Areas addressed include creating a safe work environment, individual and team strategies for delivering safe services, managing critical incidents, and methods of empowering consumers to develop personal safety skills. Risk prevention is reviewed from multiple perspectives.

♦ Training Staff to Provide Assertive Outreach Services to Persons with Severe Mental Illness   ACT-002; $18.00
   Brooks, E., Jonikas, J.A., Cook, J.A., Engstrom, K., Witheridge, T. (1991)

Using content from Creating Community Linkages (Item #: ACT-001), this curriculum trains case managers to provide assertive community outreach services for mental health consumers in two 8-hour class sessions. Qualities needed in an outreach worker, features of mental illness and medications, the Total Team Approach, support systems, and cultural relevance are addressed. Role plays, case studies, quizzes, and a self-assessment questionnaire are used to reinforce the material.

♦ Preparing Students with Psychiatric Disabilities for Postsecondary Education:
   Class II - Improving Study Skills
   Kerouac, J., Solomon, M.L., Feldman, R., Cook, J.A. (1993)

   These curricula present two preparatory classes for students who wish to expand their vocational options through higher education in college or technical school. The curricula are designed for use by teachers in psychiatric rehabilitation or special education settings. The first course, Strategies for Success, helps students identify their career goals, education needs, and schools providing the training and academic setting they desire. The curriculum includes units on values clarification, consumer education to recognize fraudulent advertising by trade schools and lending institutions, and visits to local postsecondary schools. The second course, Improving Study Skills, is composed of ten sessions, each focusing on a particular skill critical for academic achievement, including test-taking strategies and reading techniques.

♦ Outreach to African American and Hispanic Families:
   A Manual for NAMI Affiliates   MAN-004; $19.85
   Cook, J.A., Knox, J. (1994)

   This manual was created to assist affiliates of the National Alliance for the Mentally Ill (NAMI) in providing outreach to African American and Hispanic/Latino consumers and families. Chapters cover the needs for minority outreach, techniques for enhancing cultural sensitivity and cultural competence, steps to take in formulating an outreach program, four basic outreach strategies, evaluation of outreach efforts, and ways to disseminate successful projects.

♦ What Happened to Ricardo?/¿Que Le Paso a Ricardo?
   Silva, J., Lara, M., Hall, L., Resto, O., Creamer, C. (1992)

   This photonovella, or picture book, tells the story, in English and Spanish, of one family's attempts to cope with the onset of schizophrenia in their young adult son. Designed especially for Spanish-speaking audiences, it also is appealing to youth and adults from any culture. In addition to providing facts about psychiatric disability and treatments, the photonovella includes support resources for families of those with psychiatric disabilities.

  and Psychiatric Disability   CUR-006; $19.00
  Hamilton, M., Jonikas, J.A., Razzano, L., Cook, J.A. (2002)

  This training curriculum was designed to be used by peer facilitators to conduct support groups for persons who are HIV+ and have a psychiatric disability. It contains 20 sessions which address a variety of issues, including:
  stigma, treatment and medication options, grieving and loss, substance abuse, relationships and safer sex, entitlements, and disability rights. Sample scripts to assist facilitators in presenting educational material to the group are included. In addition, each session features group exercises. Resources are provided for

  This curriculum familiarizes mental health service providers with issues related to HIV/AIDS among mental health consumers. Topics include prevalence of HIV/AIDS among consumers, substance abuse issues, risk patterns, testing, education, prevention, risk reduction strategies, and services issues for consumers affected by HIV/AIDS. Resources and case examples are provided.

♦ Peer Outcomes Protocol   OTH-035; $20.00
  Campbell, J., Cook, J.A., Jonikas, J.A., Einspahr, K. (2004)

  This protocol was co-developed by the UIC NRTC and the Missouri Institute of Mental Health. The Protocol is a step-by-step guide for gathering information about mental health self-help or peer-run programs/groups. The Protocol consists of an Administration Manual, a Question-by-Question Guide, a Questionnaire, Response Cards, and a report of the psychometric properties of the Questionnaire. The Questionnaire consists of seven parts or modules:
  Demographics, Service Use, Employment, Community Life, Quality of Life,
  Well-Being, and Program Satisfaction. Use of the Protocol can assist peer-run programs in evaluating their services/supports, improving their programming,
  and reporting their successes to funding bodies and public entities.

♦ Navigating the Information Superhighway: Increasing Internet Knowledge and Use among Mental Health Stakeholders   OTH-022; $9.75
    Williams, M., Fitzgibbon, G., Murphy, M. (1998)

    This manual targets stakeholders with little or no computer or Internet experience. Its goal is to encourage readers who are just beginning their exploration of the Internet to investigate the many options that the Internet provides for consumer advocacy, information, and networking with peers. The manual briefly reviews necessary equipment for connecting to the Internet by computer, and then paints a broad portrait of the components of the Internet, providing contact information to more specific resources for those who wish to follow-up on a topic once they are online.

♦ Selecting Statistics
    Andrews, F., Klem, L., Davidson, T., O'Malley, P., Rodgers, W.

    This interactive computer software asks the user questions about data and progressively leads to the selection of an appropriate statistical analysis or class of analyses. The program keeps a log of all questions asked and answers provided. Along with the recommended analysis, the program identifies the appropriate statistical test, provides a citation to the statistical literature that describes the analysis in more detail, and indicates one or more available computer programs that can accomplish the analysis.

♦ The Regression-Discontinuity Design: An Introduction　　　　OTH-011; $9.50
　　Trochim, W.

　　This manual provides an introduction to the regression discontinuity (RD) design in program evaluation and gives an explanation of how it works. The major advantage of RD is that, unlike some other designs, it allows the treatment or service being evaluated to be given to those most in need of it; thus, use of the RD design allows researchers to combine the effects of a rigorous research design with good clinical practice in ways that other designs, such as randomization, may not. The manual presents a basic introduction to the nature of RD, how it works in a simulated mental health evaluation study, types of data necessary for an RD evaluation, advantages and disadvantages of using the design, and sample data and plots illustrating the working of RD. A glossary of all terms is included, along with suggestions for further reading. (Best utilized in conjunction with Item # OTH-012.)

♦ *The Regression-Discontinuity Design: Dice-Rolling Simulation
　Exercises*　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　　OTH-012; $9.50
　　Trochim, W.

　　The regression-discontinuity (RD) design is a useful method for evaluating the effects of mental health services programming. The design has not been widely implemented to date, in part because it is initially counter-intuitive and requires some knowledge of advanced statistics. This manual provides the reader with a concrete, intuitive feeling for the RD design through several simulation exercises using dice rolling. By creating imaginary data to simulate the kind of data that might be collected for an actual evaluation, the reader constructs and compares the working of an RD design with that of a randomized experimental design.
　　(Best utilized in conjunction with Item #OTH-011.)

    This manual documents best practices in establishing adherence to medication and treatment regimens among diverse types of patients and diseases. Abstracts of research articles are presented that describe adherence interventions that have been evaluated and found to be effective in the treatment of diabetes, hypertension, heart disease, psychiatric disorder, kidney disease, and substance use disorders. It brings together "what works" in helping patients maintain adherence across disease states and conditions.
